Program Description

The Families Learning Conference, hosted by the National Center for Families Learning, will be held November 18-20, 2024, at the Louisville Marriott Downtown. The Families Learning Conference curates a wide variety of high-quality professional learning opportunities for educators who work across the age continuum, librarians, school and district administrators, and others who support families to achieve their academic and economic goals. Content areas include family literacy, family engagement, family leadership, policy and advocacy, and research and evaluation.

Objectives of Program

Conference attendees will have the opportunity to:

- Explore groundbreaking techniques and tools to enhance their educational approach.
- Learn actionable methods to ensure equitable and inclusive education for all students.
- Delve into the latest studies and findings that support family-centered educational practices.
- Connect with educators and professionals from across the country to exchange ideas and build lasting relationships.
- Gain inspiration and insights from leading voices and real-world success stories in education.
