Credit Hours: 2

Program Description

This two hour seminar is offered entirely in Spanish. Participants will read several poems by the Cuban poet Nicolas Guillén. We will discuss Caribbean literature and the connections between literature and music-- Cuban son, bolero, and salsa. This seminar can be taken alone or as part of a monthly series of topics on Latin American Culture and Literature. See additional listings. World Language Standards: Addresses all four modalities through interpersonal communication, interpretive listening, interpretive reading, and interpersonal writing. Makes cultural and interdisciplinary connections (Skill Category 2 in revised 2019 AP curriculum.)

Objectives of Program

Participants will be able to: Practice and develop academic Spanish-speaking skills in a Socratic seminar format. Practice and demonstrate interpretive listening, interpretive reading, and interpersonal communication; identify and relate the challenges of this practice to student performance in the classroom setting. Examine culture and literature from various time periods and Spanish-speaking countries. Design, develop and scaffold cultural and literature connections to any level of Spanish curriculum
