Program Description

Designed not only for formal educators but also for those working in the field through their roles as staff in state parks or reserves; environmental, residential, and nature centers; or farmers' markets, this intensive workshop will enhance educators' understanding of the Kentucky Academic Standards through environmental education activities. Upon completion of the two-day event, participants will be trained as certified educators in Project Learning Tree, Project WET, and Project WILD.On-site overnight accommodations are available for $8. Lodging is rustic in nature - a semi-private bunk house on each side of the lodge. Showers are available. Please bring linens, a blanket, and a pillow. Objectives of Program

The following meals are included in the registration fee, 8/1 - lunch and dinner, and 8/2 - breakfast and lunch. Participants will also receive a physical copy of each curriculum activity guide.The bootcamp will be facilitated by Dr. Melinda Wilder, Former Director of the Division of Natural Areas at Eastern Kentucky University and Professor Emeritus; Vivian Bowles, retired Madison County science teacher; Brittany Wray, KAEE Education Director; and Katherine Bullock, KAEE Outreach Director. Each day's activities will focus on activities from Project Learning Tree, Project WET, and Project WILD, with a deep dive into the Kentucky Academic Standards (not just science!) and the correlations for these award-winning environmental education curricula.
